NEW TREASURY OF XXth CENTURY MURDER COMPENDIUM COLLECTS MORE MURDEROUS MILESTONES

The Treasury of Murder, NBM's oldest series, is still going strong. Rick Geary recreates the most shocking and prominent murders of the previous two centuries with careful detail.

This volume, in a handsome quarter bound presentation, boasts 240 pages of slightly ghoulish delight and Geary galore collecting 3 chilling tales of the 20th century from the 15 strong series:

THE LINDBERGH CHILD, America's Hero and The Crime of the Century as Charles Lindbergh, first to cross the Atlantic solo, was the victim of a kidnapping gone bad, very bad as the baby died. A fascinating story, of course without a fully satisfactory conclusion, as Geary loves, replete with savory details and unsavory people as only Geary can masterfully relate with his understated dark humor.

MADISON SQUARE TRAGEDY, about famous NY architect Stanford White's philandering which cost him his life at the hands of a semi-demented millionaire all involving the famous first super-model Evelyn Nesbit, of "Girl in the Red Velvet Swing" fame.

THE TERRIBLE AXE-MAN OF NEW ORLEANS, a serial killer who had a predilection for grocers in the city where Jazz had just been born. Gruesome (but only suggested as Geary does so well) and unsolved.

The Treasury of Murder series started back in 1987 collecting the most shocking and prominent murders in Victorian times. Over its long life and many formats, this series has sold over 100,000 copies.

6x9, 240 pp., B&W quarter-bound HC, $27.99, ISBN 9781681120638, Publication: March '17.
